example using the `<embed>` tag:

---

HTML                                                                        ⧉

```html
<!DOCTYPE html>
<html>
<head>
<title>PDF Example</title>
</head>
<body>
  <h1>Embedding a PDF</h1>
  <embed src="path/to/your/file.pdf" type="application/pdf" width="100%" height="600px" />
</body>
</html>
```

Replace `"path/to/your/file.pdf"` with the actual path to your PDF file. This code will embed the PDF directly into your web page, allowing users to view it without having to download it. The `width` and `height` attributes can be adjusted to fit your layout needs.

If you prefer using the `<object>` tag, here's how you can do it:

---

HTML                                                                        ⧉

```html
<!DOCTYPE html>
<html>
<head>
<title>PDF Example by Object Tag</title>
</head>
<body>
  <h1>PDF Example by Object Tag</h1>
  <object data="path/to/your/file.pdf" type="application/pdf" width="100%"
height="500px">
    Unable to display PDF file. Download instead.
  </object>
```
